NEWS & ANNOUNCEMENTS

BEFORE LEAVING A FIRM...

It is important to understand the impact that the move will have on your File & Serve cases. The cases on File & Serve follow the attorney not the firm. To make sure the cases are left with the correct attorney of record you will need to obtain a list of all cases the departing attorney is listed on. This information can be found by running a Cases Search.

1. From the home screen click on the Search tab and then select the Cases Search.
2. From the drop down select Colorado as the jurisdiction and enter the first and last name field with leaving attorneys name.
3. Click View and will get a report of all the cases in which that attorney is designated as the attorney or record.

Cases Search

Use this search to see a list of all cases in a court, the transactions in those cases, and the parties in the

Define your search: (* indicates a required field.)

1. Select Jurisdiction.
2. To change the scope of your search, select or enter additional information in subsequent fields.
3. Then click View.

Using the results from the Cases Search determine the cases that should move with the departing attorney and the cases that should remain.

- For the cases that should remain with the firm a substitution of counsel should be filed with the court PRIOR to the move.
- For cases that will move a Notification of Change needs to be filed with the court.

Note: If you are dealing with a high volume of changes contact your local court to review the possibility of submitting the changes in an Excel spreadsheet.

In addition to ensuring that the cases have the proper representation, you should also update your new firm information with attorney registration. Go to the Offices of Attorney Registration website for more information.
